

Night and Day: The New American Idols

For this series, I interacted with lounge singers at a piano bar in San Diego, CA. I got to know them over the course of a year. I learned their songs and listened to their stories. I photographed the singers in their homes, capturing them in a light that I perceived to highlight each individual's personality. The images are narrative - based and a deliberate exercise in storytelling. They are presented in domestic - looking frames that I chose to match the subject's character. This presentation is meant to provide the viewer with even another layer of narrative structure.